1. The underground munitions works at Krapkowice (Krapnitz-P51/J25), which was destroyed and its equipment looted during the war, remained in ruins until 1951. Then, in 1952, it was occupied by the Polish Army. Military personnel quartered in huts in the woods were assigned the job of clearing the area.
2. In spring 1953, it was announced in Krapkowice that laborers were required for rebuilding the munitions factory.
3. Up to autumn 1954 reconstruction work was still in progress and no production had started.
